

Dr. Bloom gets ganged up on in debate. But it doesn't matter.

By ACSH Staff — June 10, 2013

Cross Talk, one of the shows on RT.com, a Russian-based English language quas-propaganda site which says it is the largest news service on YouTube, with a reach of 1 billion viewers (?), did a segment on the over-pharmacating of America. In a live debate, host Peter Lavelle and two participants (with obvious agendas) took a decidedly anti-pharmaceutical position, leaving ACSH's Dr. Josh Bloom as the fall guy.

It didn't quite turn out that way. You can watch the 25 minute debate here. [1]
