Health Panel Supports Irradiation as Aid to Export of Hawaiian Fruit

By ACSH Staff — June 19, 1998

New York, NY June 19, 1998. The American Council on Science and Health (ACSH) today announced its support for the use of irradiation as a fruit and vegetable quarantine process and applauded the planned construction of an irradiation facility near Hilo on the Big Island of Hawaii. It is important for consumers to understand that food irradiation is a safe process,
